

I believe that the more diversified the ownership of media is, the more competition there will be for the public's attention and approval. This is a good thing - Monopolies tend to get arrogant and slothful, since there's nowhere else to go.

I feel that the restrictions on broadcast ownership should not be loosened; if anything, tightening them should be investigated.